Bay Area HRTC’s Public Comment Letter re: State’s Catalyst Program

As a collaborative, concerns shared in our letter includes:

- A concern about the departure from the goals, values and expectations that have previously been set forward for CERF: Community- and worker-centered inclusive economic planning.

- Since the Catalyst Program calls for HRTCs to set up three Industry Collaboratives within each HRTC, this may lead HRTCs to pursue a narrow, traditional economic development framework consisting solely of Industry Collaboratives and pre-defined deliverables and leave little to no room for grassroots planning processes.
Bay Area HRTC’s Proposed Suggestions

In its public comment letter, the Bay Area HRTC proposed the three options below as alternatives for the State to consider:

1. Maintain the original vision and structure of CERF, with Phase 2 funding to be committed to pilot projects defined and designed by grassroots multi-stakeholder designed around the needs and metrics each HRTC has defined for itself in the Planning Phase.

2. Seek a legislative extension for the deadline for expenditure of Phase 2 CERF funds, while empowering stakeholders in each region to define their own needs and approach.

3. Partner with a California-based philanthropic foundation that is trusted by grassroots stakeholders to receive the Phase 2 CERF funds. The foundation would then establish a representative board of stakeholders to provide oversight for the distribution of funding for pre-development and/or pilot projects according to the original intent of CERF.

The next 90 days will be used to deepen community input. Below are draft activities being considered to incorporate community feedback on the research done to date:

- Research team will take the current research draft on a “roadshow,” to all sub-regional tables to solicit input from the community and to help identify gaps in the quantitative analysis done to date

- Focus groups with historically understudied populations in the bay area, such as tribal workers, agricultural/migrant workers, and formerly incarcerated workers

- Interviews with workers in low-road industries and occupations (identified from the quantitative analysis)

- Surveys of workers by sub-regional tables
Breakout Groups

- Breakout into groups of ~10 people
- Spend 15 minutes answering the following questions:

  1. What are your initial thoughts, reactions, comments regarding the ideas presented?

  2. What is missing from these ideas? What isn’t being captured that should be? Are there gaps regarding the community engagement proposals we should be aware of?
